

Atlantic Facilities and Research Equipment Database

What is AFRED?

The Atlantic Facilities and Research Equipment Database (AFRED) is an open access, online, searchable database designed to increase the use of specialized research infrastructure in our region by connecting potential users with the facilities that host the equipment.

What are the benefits?

- Quickly find available equipment in the region
- Connect with experts familiar with that equipment
- Access to a growing network of collaborators
- Find revenue opportunities by listing idle equipment
- Create partnerships and collaborations that can provide a competitive edge when applying for funding

How do I participate?

Searching and listing in AFRED is quick and easy. Go to AFRED.ca, or contact us (info below) to learn more! Recorded or one-on-one demos are available.

About the project

UPEI and AFRED are working together to help UPEI become the first institution in Atlantic Canada with a full listing of their campus infrastructure in AFRED.
